Bridging the Gap Podcast Episode: "Following God's Path as a Planner" w/ Morgan Pearson

- Do you have a dream or goal in your life that has yet to be realized? What can you do to continue to plan and prepare with God, while staying flexible to His perfect plan for you? Are you struggling to give God the reigns to your life? If so, in what areas or for what reasons are holding you back from doing so (e.g. fear, control, perfectionism, etc.)?
- Can you think of a time when you expected (and prayed for) something to go differently but now look back thankful that God provided in a much different and better way? Share one to two examples of God's goodness and faithfulness in your life that were unexpected and unplanned surprises.
- Morgan shares how the area between expectations and reality can give room for disappointment and building resentment. Does this idea resonate with you, and if so, how? What expectations do you need to surrender in order to create space for something new God might want to do in your life?
- Read the following verse (1 Corinthians 15:58, NLT): "So, my dear brothers and sisters, be strong and immovable. Always work enthusiastically for the Lord, for you know that nothing you do for the Lord is ever useless." Is there a piece of you that questions if you've wasted any time, money, or energy thus far in life? After reading Paul's words to the Corinthians, can you see how God can use these things for His good and glory in His time, as only He can?
- Morgan shared a perspective of viewing your life as a big puzzle with only God knowing the beautiful masterpiece He is creating. With the known or perceived "puzzle pieces" in front of you, what do you feel God is prompting you to do next?
